

Too Much Time

©2009 Richard Burkett 3/4 time 140 bpm Bb

I V I
He's got too much time on his hands.

I IV I
She's stuck there at home, and he's out with his friends,

IV I
Drinking and joking, he forgets about who,

IV V
Looking for love, just for one night, or two.

V I
He's got too much time on his hands.

She's got too much time on her hands.

He's out working, and she's out making plans
To forget him and leave him, to start life anew
Sever those ties that bind, she's all through.
She's got too much time on her hands.

Too much time on their hands.

They've forgotten the joy of Together Again.
Now they're both single, hooking up when they can.
Never look back, but they do now and then.
They've got too much time on their hands.

And now they're starting all over again.
